Activities to Boost Your Mood

Purpose: This worksheet is designed to help you gently re-engage with life through small, meaningful activities. Choose a few items from each category to try this week. Check them off as you complete them and reflect on how they made you feel.

Mental & emotional wellness

- [ ] Practice mindfulness or guided meditation (5-10 minutes)
- [ ] Write in a journal (gratitude, thoughts, or goals)
- [ ] Try a cognitive puzzle (Sudoku, crossword, word search)
- [ ] Read a short article or book chapter
- [ ] Listen to uplifting or calming music

Physical Activity

- [ ] Take a short walk outside
- [ ] Stretch or do gentle yoga
- [ ] Try a beginner workout video
- [ ] Dance to your favorite song
- [ ] Do a small chore (make the bed, tidy a room)

Social Connection

- [ ] Text or call a friend or family member
- [ ] Join an online support group or forum
- [ ] Write a letter or email to someone you care about
- [ ] Plan a low-pressure outing (coffee, walk, visit the library)
- [ ] Smile at someone or say hello to a neighbor

Creative Expression

- [ ] Draw, paint, or color
- [ ] Try a DIY or craft project
- [ ] Bake or cook something simple
- [ ] Take photos of things that bring joy
- [ ] Rearrange or decorate a small space

Self-care and routine

- [ ] Take a shower or bath
- [ ] Prepare a healthy meal or snack
- [ ] Drink a glass of water mindfully
- [ ] Set a small goal for the day and check it off
- [ ] Go to bed and wake up at consistent times

Engagement with the World

- [ ] Visit a local park or nature spot
- [ ] Volunteer for a small task or cause
- [ ] Explore a new place (even virtually)
- [ ] Watch a documentary or educational video
- [ ] Try something new (food, hobby, podcast)

Reflection

- Which activities helped you feel more connected or uplifted?
- What did you notice about your mood before and after each activity?
- Are there any activities you'd like to repeat or build into your routine?

Tips

- Start small. Even one activity a day can make a different. Celebrate each step forward!